

VACANCY

AGRICULTURE MANAGER

ABOUT DAURES GREEN HYDROGEN CONSORTIUM:

Daures Green Hydrogen Consortium (DGHC) is looking to grow its team. The Consortium will be developing the Daures Green Hydrogen Village in the Daures Constituency in the Erongo Region. The project will focus on green scheme agriculture underpinned by green hydrogen and green ammonia production. The pilot project intends to show proof of concept and use cases, subsequent phases will scale production to commercial levels over the course of the next few years. As such Daures Green Hydrogen Consortium intends to employ an Agriculture Manager to join our team based in Windhoek.

Read more about the Daures Green Village on our website: www.daures.green

ROLE: AGRICULTURE MANAGER

Purpose of Position

The Agriculture Manager is responsible for the development and management of the Daures Green Hydrogen Village agricultural business. The successful applicant shall be responsible for all projects from the inception stage pre-feasibility studies up to project commissioning and completion. This includes the strategic objectives of the green scheme, management of employees, sales, and distribution of produce.

Competency and Skill Requirements:

- Must have a relevant tertiary qualification preferably in agriculture
- Previous sales and management experience within agriculture is essential
- 5 years management experience in running an agriculture project
- Knowledge of wide industry experience, including seed, fertilizer and crop protection will be required
- Proficient in one or more local languages
- Willingness to commute between Windhoek and the Daures Constituency
- Experience leading teams
- Experience in farming high value crops in a green house's will be an advantage
- Understanding Local and Regional Markets and networks will be an advantage
- Interest in renewable energy, green hydrogen and green ammonia

Location: Windhoek, Namibia

Salary: Market Related

To Apply: Please send your CV and a cover letter to: hr@daures.green

Closing Date: 7th October 2022